

For Porco, the judging part was taking up a lot of room, which meant that Porco was starting to hate the part that made him eat...

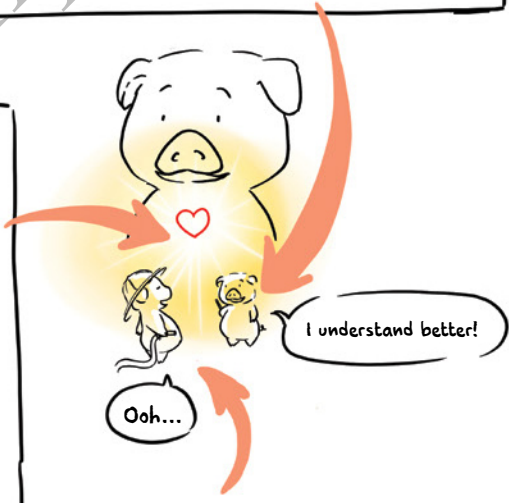

Apparently, understanding the caring role of the firefighter part allowed the judging part to relax.

This hasn't solved everything, but at least it's brought Porco a bit more inner peace.

As a result, Porco was able to access his natural space of kindness and send compassion to the part that makes him eat...

8

... which in turn allowed him to relax.

